

Steel Work on Newhouse Hotel Completed

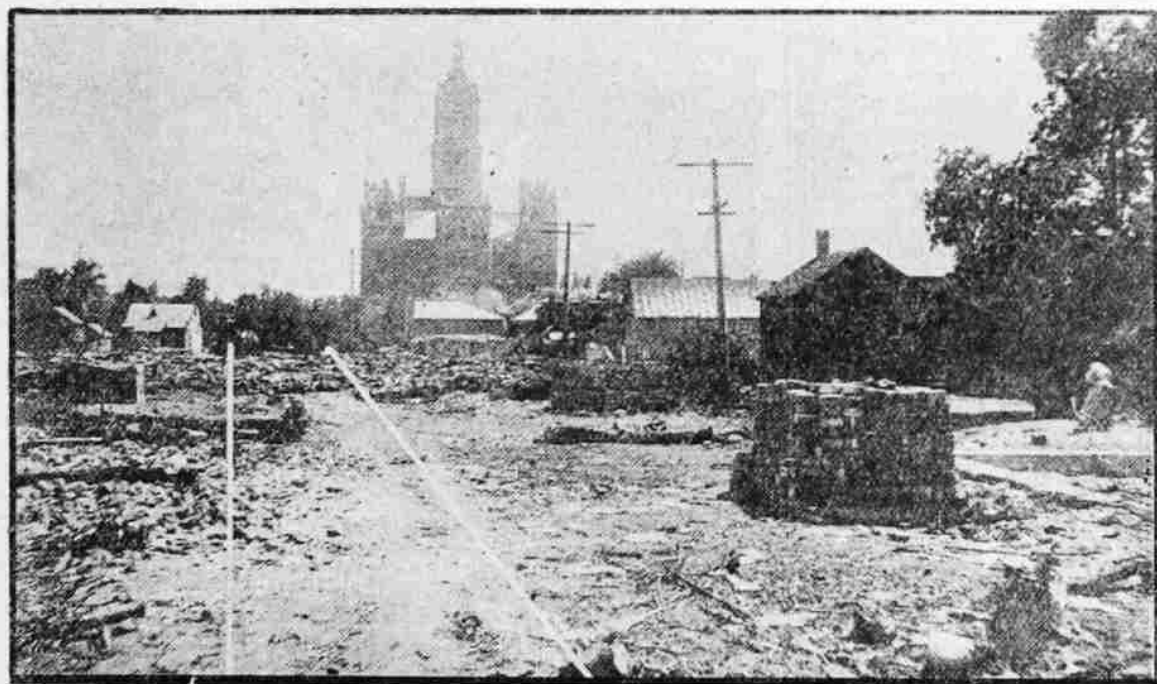

In spite of several delays in the receipt of material from the eastern mills, the steel framework of the Newhouse hotel building, corner Main and Fourth South streets, has been completed in record-breaking time for local construction. During the last week the American flag was placed at the top of the highest steel upright, signaling the completion of a job which is of interest to every resident of the city. When the Thompson-Starrett company began the placing of the steel in position, announcement was made that the work would be hurried through to as rapid completion as possible. That this company has finished the work in advance of the contractors of the Utah hotel structure is a source of satisfaction to the men who have had the job in charge. The race has been on in earnest for some time, and the victory is a momentous one in building circles. The picture accompanying this article shows the complete steel framework up to the twelfth story. The building, when completed, will have dimensions of 155x145 feet, in an L shape, which will admit later, when patronage justifies, of adding to it in a U shape. During the last month the Thompson-Starrett company has kept about forty men employed. That they have done commendable work is shown by the record time in which the steel framework was completed.

New Street on Auerbach Property

Everything is now in readiness for the curbing and paving of the new street which is to be cut from Third South to Fourth South streets between State and Second East streets by George Auerbach, the owner of the ground. The old buildings formerly occupying the ground have been torn down to make room for the paving and new buildings. What buildings Mr. Auerbach expects to erect has not been made known, but they undoubtedly will be a credit to that part of the city. The new thoroughfare will be a continuation of what is known as Edison street.

LA CROSSE, Wis., May 21.—The Monroe county court house was sold at tax sale yesterday for an unpaid wood tax of thirty cents, levied by the city of

WOOLGROWERS MAY STORE MUCH OF THEIR CLIP

A movement was initiated by the directors of the Utah Woolgrowers' association Saturday to have a large part of the Utah wool clip stored in a huge warehouse at Boston and held until the market price has advanced. Wool growers say there is a lull in the wool market at present; they are not getting the price they want, nor is there active buying.

Jeremiah Williams of Boston, who has a warehouse in which 125,000,000 pounds of wool can be stored, has offered to take as much of the Utah clip as can be shipped to him by the state association. Upon receipt of the wool he will advance to the growers three-fourths of the market price of wool at the time of shipment, and when the wool is sold, which will be when the grower desires, the difference in price will be remitted. Williams will also send agents hither to handle the wool. Two years ago, when the wool market was dull, the Utah growers, through the association, shipped much of their wool to be stored in Philadelphia. Then the arrangement was satisfactory, and it is expected that it will be so again.

Grand Larceny Is Charged.
The county attorney issued a complaint Saturday against Gus Lascher and Vesal Lascher charging them with grand larceny. It is asserted that the Laschers stole $330 from Anthony Changonca, a Greek employed at the Murray smelter. The men had a room together and Changonca put his roll of money under the mattress and left for a few minutes. Upon his return his money and the men were missing.

Case Against Moore Dismissed.
For lack of evidence of there having been a crime committed against the United States, H. E. Booth, district attorney, caused to be dismissed the case against E. A. Moore, charged with running a C. O. D. express bunco game, before United States Commissioner Charles Baldwin Saturday. Moore was arrested last Wednesday and the charge was that he had used the mails for illegal purposes.

DEMAND FOR MONEY CONTINUES STRONG

Rate for Farm Loans Advanced to Keep Banking Business Normal.

With the demand for money still continuing fairly strong, the last week has proved to be unusually quiet in money circles. Funds are not readily available to supply all the demands, though some of the preferred enterprises have no difficulty in obtaining all the money wanted. Bank clearings continue to show an increase over the same period of last year. For the week ended May 21 the clearings were $7,984,057.54, while for the corresponding period of last year they were $6,565,246.06, a gain of $518,811.48.

The rate on farm loans has been advanced, and one of the local bankers, in discussing the reason Saturday, said that the idea in advancing the rate was not to check land speculation so much as to keep the normal proportions of the banking business intact. The banks report that they are being swamped with demands from the country for funds.

In the hardware trade there has been a slight falling off in business and collections are rather slow. The lumber trade also reports a quiet week, in sympathy with the money market. In the wholesale dry goods trade there is a reported bracing of the cotton market, due to the short supply in the wool crop. The retail dry goods trade has experienced an unusually quiet week along general lines, although the special sales of the various stores have been well patronized.

CORONATION CEREMONY AT ST. MARY'S NEXT SUNDAY

The annual coronation ceremony will take place next Sunday evening, May 28, in St. Mary's Catholic cathedral. The exercises will begin at 7 o'clock. The coronation ceremony consists of adorning the brow of the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary with a wreath of beautiful flowers.

One hundred little girls will take part in the ceremony. The act of coronation will be performed by Marian Bird, who will be attended by her little sister, Joan, as maid of honor.

Preceding the coronation, the children will march in procession around the cathedral, entering the main door and proceeding to the altar of the Blessed Virgin, on the west side of the church. During the procession the little girls will sing May carols. There will be a special musical programme for the occasion. After the ceremony there will be benediction and the office of the blessed sacrament, at which the Rt. Rev. Bishop Laurence Scanlan will officiate.

The children who are to take part in the coronation ceremony will have rehearsal this afternoon. Miss Nora Gleason, organist and director of the choir at St. Mary's, will have charge of the preparation for the coronation. This ceremony is of important significance in the Catholic church, and is beautiful in the extreme. All of the little girls will be robed in white, wearing white veils and wreaths.
